DAY IN THE U. S. CONGRESS

Mills, of Texas, Insults Speaker Reed and Major McKinley on the Floor of the House.

AN UNPRECEDENTED SCENE OCCURS.

The Sergeant-at-Arms and His Mace Called In---Reed's Coolness Averts Violence.

Democrats Go to Extremes in Their Fight Against the Bill to Insure Honest Elections-Obstructive

Special Disputch to the Intelligencer.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20 -If Mr. Mills, of Texas, has at any time considered himself seriously in the race for the Speakership of the next House, he has certainly no idea of that character now. The exhibition of femper which he displayed on the floor to-day has, in the minds of all candid Democrats, disqualified him from presiding over the House.

But the temper shown by the gentleman from Texas was not wide of the average spirit being displayed by the Dem-

House to-day was one of pandemonium and should be a disgrace to the leaders of it. The Democrats have been fighting to kill time every day for more than a week by antagonizing the approval of the Journal each day, and when the Speaker ruled the procedure out of order Mr. Mills became frantic. He wildly sawed the air and screamed epithets at the top of his voice. The Sergeant-at-Arms wan called upon to suppress him. Some of his followers were also wild with excitement and covered themselves with disgrace.

with disgrace.
The proceedings showed to what desperate ends the Democrats are being driven in their struggle to defeat the Election bill by means fair and foul, and emphasized the necessity of the adoption of such a recasure.

It impressed the Republicans with the fit that the shot-gun brigade fear the effects of the Election bill should it become a law.

Democrats again defeated Republican aims in the Senate this afternon. The ation. Mr. George, who had the floor when the Senate adjourned yester npon the Election bill to the exclusion of the Cloture resolution, and by this means whipsaw both propositions. But the Republicans will take the bit in their months after a few more days of this kind of work and will pass the Cloture resolution. This done, the Election bill can be brought to a vote and legislation will proceed in a business-like way.

A SIURMY SUENE.

The Election bill to the exclusion in the United States.

After ten minutes he complained of whether he might ask the Senator from South Carolina to read the speech, or a part of it, for him, so that he might have a little rest. To that proposition Mr. George resumed the reading with the words, meaning the proposition of America," which caused considerable laughter at the idea of that there was so much more to come. After Mr. George had spoken for nearly three hours and a half, Mr. Butler (with a view to give him a resting spell) asked him to yield the floor, so that he (Mr. Butler) might send to the clerk's desk and have read the chapter of the revised statutes relating to the subject of elections.

Mr. George assented willingly to that arrangement and after the Secretary had read for a few minutes, Mr. Butler no leed that the charter which was being read was not the one he meant.
